

Stuff | Trade Me | Find Someone | Old Friends | Smaps
Calculators

SafeTrader
dompost.co.nz

 Wednesday, 16 May 2007

Interest-free period over?

PSIS is not a registered bank, but a very co-operative co-operative.

Local News | National | World | Sport | Business | Features | Opinion | Photos | Newspapers

Search GO

The Dominion Post > National > Story

Investigator denies showing illegal film

By HAYDON DEWES - The Dominion Post | Wednesday, 16 May 2007

Email a Friend | Printable View | Have Your Say

The source of reports that a bestiality film was shown at Police Commissioner Howard Broad's house in 1981 was an investigator who spied on Labour MPs on behalf of the Exclusive Brethren, Investigate magazine has confirmed.

Related Links

- Subscribe to Archvestuff
- Have your say

However, Dunedin private investigator Wayne Idour - who confirmed last September that he was hired indirectly by the Brethren to dig dirt on Labour MPs - has categorically denied supplying the illegal movie, as claimed by Police Minister Annette King yesterday.

Ms King said she had spoken to a former policeman, Peter Gibbons, who was also at the party.

In a statement issued by his lawyer, Mr Idour said: "Any allegations that I (brought and played the film) are completely and totally false. I do not know who supplied it and I do not know who was operating the projector."

Mr Idour confirmed he was at the party and that the movie was shown, but he had "expressed disgust to some of the people in my vicinity" over its contents. There were a lot of people in the room and he recalled cheering and crude comments.

The event was outlined in an article in Investigate, which went on to allege that Mr Broad groped female officers - something he strongly denied. It also alleged a culture of police corruption in Christchurch and Dunedin and that Labour ministers covered up criminal allegations, including rape claims.

Investigate editor Ian Wishart yesterday confirmed that Mr Idour gave him information about the party at Mr Broad's house.

Though he was willing to be named, Mr Wishart said he chose to respect Mr Idour and his family's privacy because of the terminal illness of a close family member.

He said Investigate had never paid Mr Idour, nor did it have any links with the Exclusive Brethren.

Prime Minister Helen Clark had earlier questioned whether there were links between the religious group and the magazine. "We have to ask the question of who funds these sorts of investigations? Who funds Investigate magazine? Who prints it? These are questions journalists can legitimately ask."

Brethren spokesman Tony McCorkell denied any link with Investigate and said it appeared as though Miss Clark had become obsessed with the church.

He spoke with senior church members yesterday, who confirmed that Mr Idour had been hired by "one or two" individual church members last year, but had since severed all ties. "It's got nothing to do with them, and absolutely nothing to do with the church."

The Police Complaints Authority has begun an initial analysis of all allegations raised by the magazine. Authority head Justice Lowell Goddard said it would decide on the appropriate course of action once that was complete.

Next Story:

- More National Stories

Email a Friend | Printable View | Have Your Say

- Email alerts
- Text alerts
- RSS Feeds
- Make this my homepage

National Headlines

- Friends celebrate Bain's release from jail
- Call for MPs to lose secrecy shield

Sponsored Links

Local News | National | World | Sport | Business | Features | Opinion | Photos | Reader Services

Site Map | About Stuff | Feedback | Advertise Online With Us | Place a Newspaper Classified Ad | A to Z directories | Magazine Subscriptions | Competitions | RSS

© Fairfax New Zealand Limited 2007. All the material on this page has the protection of international copyright. All rights reserved.